DIVE EQUIPMENT

Participants on Arctic Kingdom expeditions are required to bring their own drysuit and personal scuba diving equipment to ensure fit and familiarity. A proper drysuit fit is very specific to the individual's height, wrists, neck, and shoe size. Buoyancy compensators must fit comfortably over a drysuit, fins must fit the drysuit boots, and hoods fit closely for optimum warmth. If you plan to rent or buy new scuba equipment that requires individual fitting, such as a drysuit, you should dive with it before the expedition to ensure proper fit, function and familiarity.

SCUBA DIVING VOLUNTARY RELEASE & WAIVER FOR EQUIPMENT RENTALS

Arctic Kingdom assumes no responsibility or liability for equipment made available directly, or indirectly from substitutions of equipment, or equipment provided by participant, as to its safety quality or condition.

Each expedition member is liable for any loss, damage or destruction of equipment in their care that was provided to them by Arctic Kingdom. All equipment lost or damaged beyond repair will be paid for by the expedition member at 1.5 times the suggested retail price to cover the freight and logistics necessary to replace equipment in the arctic. Damaged equipment that can be repaired will be fixed by the manufacturer and the cost for such repairs and return freight shall be paid by the expedition member.

Arctic Kingdom reserves the right to modify and/or cancel any diving arrangements due to unfavorable weather, or other conditions, and to substitute equipment and facilities. No refunds will be granted for any cancelled diving arrangements for any reason.
