Dressing for Arctic Weather & Conditions

Temperatures and weather conditions in polar regions varies widely depending on season and location. It can even change significantly throughout the week or day. In March and April, you may experience temperatures as cold as -40°C (-40°F), and in October and November average temperatures range from -5°C to -20°C (-4°F – 23°F), with chances of snow . For trips in May and June, even as temperatures flirt just below the freezing mark, strong winds, either natural or from riding behind a snowmobile, can make temperatures feel much colder.

Clothing is key to your comfort in the Arctic. While actual temperatures, weather conditions, and wind chill, differ by season and location, the basics of dressing for cold weather are the same. We recommend dressing in layers, adding or subtracting the layers according to your needs.

There are three essential layers:

1. Base Layer
2. Insulating Mid-Layer
3. Outer Layer

Base layers and insulating layers can be used in almost any type of weather or winter climate. The outer layer will be determined by the type of weather expected on your Arctic expedition.
